Political price zooms

Oregon Common Cause's recent findings of campaign costs in the state ought to send shock waves throughout the electorate.

The price of politics is going up — drastically, dramatically and quickly.

Consider the governor's race. In 1974, Vic Atiyeh spent $322,607 and Bob Straub $215,781. That seems like a lot of money, even for a statewide race in Oregon. But look at 1978. This time Atiyeh spent $658,853 and Straub $529,680. The price tag for gubernatorial electioneering had doubled.

But even those part-time legislative seats are getting awfully expensive. Candidates for the 60 House seats doled out $1,715,092 in 1978, or an average of $14,440 for every serious candidate (those who filed, but spent less than $500 were not included). Just two years earlier, the average was about half — $7,659, which is still a heaping amount.

Senate races also doubled in cost in two years, from an average of

The cost of campaigns in short is rapidly getting out of hand. Far too much money is being spent for the health of what has been a clean political system.

The higher the costs go, the greater will be the potential influence of the special interests that are called upon to bankroll the election process. It is far too much to expect them to put up the volumes of money strictly out of a sense of civic duty.

Past efforts to hold down the cost of campaigning by placing legal limits on expenditures have been thrown out by the courts.

But the cause must not be abandoned. More and more, the evidence mounts that some type of public financing of campaigns holds out the best prospects for freeing the political process from the hazards of high campaign costs financed by a few high rollers with special interests to nurture.

DRAFT PRESS RELEASE

Governor Victor Atiyeh today announced the appointment of ~~Mr.~~ Noble Deckard as Acting Administrator of the Executive Department Personnel Division.

Mr. Deckard has been head of the Special Studies section of the Division since 1972.

The Personnel Administrator position became vacant when Richard Burke resigned to accept appointment as the Legislative Fiscal Officer.

Governor Atiyeh has requested that the Employment Relations Board conduct the competitive examination for permanent appointment to the position of Personnel Division Administrator as required by statute. The Governor will consider a list of qualified persons as submitted by the Employment Relations Board and submit one of these names to the Senate for confirmation.

In requesting the Employment Relations Board to conduct the necessary examination, Governor Atiyeh reiterated his belief that there are competent persons within state service that should be considered for this important management position.

A permanent appointment to fill the Personnel Division Administrator position ~~hopefully can~~ ^{should} be made within two months.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Fred D. Miller, 36, former director of the Oregon Department of Energy, will rejoin the Oregon Department of Transportation on February 1, according to ODOT Director Fred Klaboe.

Miller, currently deputy director of Western Sun, will be assistant director for administration. He replaces Don Streun, who resigned to become executive vice president of Air Oregon.

Miller, whose salary will be $37,608, was a special assistant to the director of ODOT from 1974 to 1977, when he was named to head up the Oregon Department of Energy.

Klaboe said Miller's duties involve supervision of finance, general services, information systems, and organization and manpower services for the department. Miller will report directly to Klaboe.

Miller holds a Ph.D from Michigan State University, where his dissertation concerned the impact of highway improvements on regional economic development in Argentina. Earlier, Miller attended Willamette University, and obtained a B.S. degree in 1964 from Portland State University.

He and his wife, Janet, have two children, and reside in Salem.

TWO TRANSITION STAFF MEMBERS NAMED BY GOVERNOR-ELECT

Two members of a transition team for Governor-Elect Vic Atiyeh were announced Thursday when he named Lynn Newbry and Travis Cross to serve as interim liaison with the Executive Department and the Governor's office.

"Both appointments are only for the temporary period of transition," Atiyeh emphasized. "Both individuals have indicated a willingness to take time away from their jobs to help during this transition period. I will be naming permanent members of my immediate staff in due course."

Newbry is public affairs executive with the Medford Corporation, a forest products manufacturing company. He is a former state senator from Jackson county who chaired the legislative ways and means committee. His father, Earl, was a two-term Secretary of State. Cross, executive director of the St. Vincent Medical Foundation, is a former assistant to Governor Mark Hatfield and was transition officer for Governor Tom McCall between his election and inauguration.

In his phone call to Atiyeh Wednesday morning Governor Bob Straub suggested two positions for working with his administration under budgeted provisions for a governor-elect. Newbry will sit in with Laurence R. Sprecher, director of the Executive Department where budget preparation is channeled and Cross will work with Loren (Bud) Kramer, executive assistant to the Governor. His first appointment to his official family came Wednesday when he said Glenna Hayden, long-time administrative assistant to Atiyeh as minority leader of the state senate, would be his personal secretary. Mrs. Hayden will handle the new governor's travel and office appointment calendar. Also appointed was Marta Ann Kitchel as receptionist. Mrs. Kitchel has been the administrative secretary for the Senate Minority Caucus and legislative secretary for the late Representative Mary Rieke.

"I have a number of names under consideration for the many positions that will need to be filled," Atiyeh noted. "Moreover, I have asked that a talent bank be established for drawing upon as the need arises. I welcome any citizen's input in this regard.

"Finding the right person for the right job is one of the highest priorities during this transition period. The search must be statewide and impartial with competence and integrity as the overriding criteria."

Recent governors have appointed an executive assistant, an administrative assistant or press aid, and a legal counsel, in the immediate office. Some flexibility exists in forming other positions and their functions.

Atiyeh has been working temporarily out of his campaign headquarters at 900 SW Stark. He said he will divide his time between Portland and Salem for a while, establishing an interim office in the Capitol Mall, working in a vacation along the way. Governor Straub is currently in Arizona on vacation.

Dear Governor Straub:

Please accept this letter as a formal notice of my intent to retire from the Department of State Police effective at 11:59 p.m. on December 31, 1978.

It is difficult for me to express my feelings about the Department and those I have worked and served with for more than 31 years, but I do know that I could not have chosen a more dedicated group to be involved with in Public Service.

I wish to express to you again my sincere appreciation for the Honor and trust you bestowed upon me when you appointed me Superintendent on December 3, 1975. It has been my privilege to serve under your able and dedicated leadership and I cannot express my appreciation enough for the firm support you have provided my office over the past three years.

My best personal regards to you, Mrs. Straub and your staff.

Sincerely,

Robert R. Fisher

Governor Bob Straub accepted the resignation of State Police Superintendent Robert R. Fisher today and, after a conference with Governor-elect Victor Atiyeh, named Deputy Superintendent John C. Williams as his successor.

Governor Straub said, "Superintendent Fisher informed me of his intention to retire December 31, 1978, a year short of his term of appointment. Superintendent Fisher has served Oregon as a superlative public servant. The quality of the Oregon State Police is a reflection of his excellent administrative qualities. He will be missed.

"It is a pleasure to announce the appointment of Deputy Superintendent Williams on behalf of Governor-elect Atiyeh and myself. We feel his appointment is in the best interest of the Department of State Police and the citizens of Oregon. Deputy Superintendent Williams has more than 32 years of experience in a wide range of state police activities and will make an excellent appointment."

The discussion of the appointment was on the agenda of the first face-to-face meeting between Governor Straub and Governor-elect Victor Atiyeh. The thirty minute meeting was held in the Governor's office in Salem. The Governor's staff has been meeting with the transition team from the Governor-elect's office on a regular basis but Governor Straub has been out of state since November 9.

Governor Straub termed the meeting "cordial and productive" and said the meeting was "a discussion of pending appointments and other matters which overlap administrations. Our talks were productive and we reached full agreement and accord."

Governor-elect Victor Atiyeh said, "This first face-to-face, person-to-person meeting between the Governor and the Governor-elect was very warm and productive. I am very pleased with the approach Governor Straub and his staff have taken toward the transition. It is obvious that everyone in the Governor's office is working for a smooth transition and we feel very good about that."

Deputy Superintendent John C. Williams will assume the post of Superintendent January 1, 1979, subject to Senate confirmation.

Salary range as of December 1, 1978 - $30,180 to $38,556.

Governor-elect Vic Atiyeh has accepted appointment to two committees of the National Governors' Association. Atiyeh will serve on the Committee on Human Resources and the Committee on Natural Resources and Environmental Management. The appointments were made at the National Governors' Association meeting this last weekend in Georgia.

There are a total of 8 committees within the national association. Atiyeh was chosen to work on these specific committees because of his extensive background and experience in the areas of natural resources and human resources.

The Governor-elect has sent telegrams to Marvin Cohen, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board and officials of Hughes Air West in San Francisco protesting the abandonment of Air West service to the Klamath Falls airport.

Atiyeh asked that this service be extended in interest of the high level of upcoming holiday travel.

Dolores Atiyeh, the wife of Governor-elect Vic Atiyeh, has selected a Salem house to serve as their residence. The Governor and his wife will rent a house on Winter Street north of the Capitol Mall.

The governor's house is owned by the state. Atiyeh will be living in the same house rented by former Governor Tom McCall when he held the top state job several years ago.

Gov.-Elect Vic Atiyeh has asked Leonard Kunzman to stay on as as Director of the Department of Agriculture.

"He is doing a fine job," the governor-elect said in a prepared statement issued from the transition office in Salem. "I was impressed with Leonard when I worked with him on legislative matters. Innovative things have been done in the Department of Agriculture under his leadership."

Kunzman, 53, was appointed originally by Gov. Straub in 1975.
A native Oregonian he attended Oregon State University earning degrees in agricultural science and education.

The director is a farmer himself having interest in a family farm in Clackamas County and his own property north of Salem.

Governor-elect Vic Atiyeh has asked the Land Conservation and Development Commission to retain Wes Kvarsten as director of the LCDC. In a letter written to Richard Gervais, LCDC chairman, Atiyeh said he had talked with Kvarsten and they agreed on "policy matters within the LCDC."

The director of this state agency is appointed by the commission, not the governor.

The letter to Gervais said in part: "I have just completed a lengthy conversation with Wes Kvarsten regarding the operation of the department and my philosophy on Oregon's approach to land use matters. You should know that I liked what I heard and that in general Wes and I agree on policy matters within the LCDC."

In making the letter public Atiyeh expressed a desire to avoid "having another land use ballot measure in two years.

"The LCDC needs to be more sensitive to local needs and citizen input into the land use process. The existing land use law is acceptable in my mind, but we need to enforce it with a reasonable approach by LCDC officials."

In the recent campaign Atiyeh did not support Ballot Measure 10, which would have made major changes in Oregon's land use law.

"I support and have always supported land use planning in Oregon," Atiyeh said. "I have had some concerns over how our land use laws are implemented, and I am looking for greater sensitivity by the agency to the input process."

Kvarsten was hired as director of the land use department August 23, 1977. He replaced Harold Brauner. Kvarsten, 54, spent 10 years as the executive director of the Mid-Willamette Valley Council of Governments prior to becoming the administrator of the LCDC. Before that he was the director of the Mid-Willamette Valley Planning Council. He is a resident of Salem.

Governor-Elect Vic Atiyeh has asked Joe Richards to stay on as chairman of the Environmental Quality Commission. Richards had offered his resignation to the Governor-Elect.

"I have talked at length with Richards," Atiyeh said. "I believe he has the necessary background and experience to continue to do an excellent job as chairman of the commission."

Richards will continue to chair the five-member commission which sets policy for the Department of Environmental Quality. The non-paid commission is appointed by the Governor.

Atiyeh, who as a state senator wrote Oregon's clean air and clean water laws and the legislation which created the DEQ, said, "Oregon has always been a leader in cleaning up the environment, we have been way out front of the federal government in this area, pioneering in fields the federal government is just now beginning to ponder.

"Oregon has reached full mature adult status in terms of environmental policy. We should not be treated like a child by the federal government."

Joe Richards was appointed by Governor Bob Straub in 1975. Richards is a Eugene attorney. He served as a state representative in the Oregon legislature for 3 terms beginning 1965.

Bill Young has been asked by Gov.-elect Vic Atiyeh to stay on as director of the Department of Environmental Quality. Earlier Atiyeh had also asked the chairman of the Environmental Quality Commission, Joe Richards, to continue to serve as a member of that non-paid policy board.

"This will keep the environmental protection leadership together," Atiyeh said. "It is my intent to continue my special interest in the field of environmental quality with my repeated insistence on a balanced and common sense but persistent approach."

Young, 41, was appointed by Gov. Bob Straub in November 1976. He had been executive director of the Local Governmental Relations Division of the Executive Department. He also was a city councilman and mayor of Beaverton.

The Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) sets standards for air, water, and land quality and the control of pollution sources to maintain those standards. The DEQ was formed in 1969 through legislation sponsored by Gov.-elect Atiyeh while he served as a state senator representing Washington county.

The headquarters office for the DEQ is in Portland.

Gov.-elect Vic Atiyeh said Friday he will resign his Washington County senate seat midnight tonight (November 24, 1978), to clear the way for the choice of his successor by the Washington County commissioners.

"My resignation comes with mixed emotions," Atiyeh said. "My entire political life has been as a representative of Washington County. Now I must leave that responsibility for a new one.

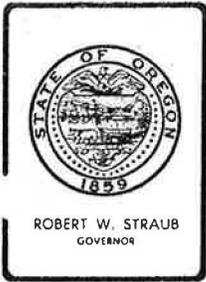

"It has always been a source of personal pride to represent this part of Oregon. I am excited about my new job and I plan on representing the whole state with the same vigor given to my legislative responsibility for the last 20 years!"

Atiyeh has been an elected member of the legislature from Washington county since 1959, serving first in the house of representatives and since 1965 in the state senate. He has been minority leader since 1973.

"It is my wish to give my successor an opportunity for the fullest and longest possible preparation for responsibilities in the senate," Atiyeh said. "She or he may well have private affairs to attend to and there is only a short period of time left before the legislature goes into session."

A formal letter of resignation was delivered to Secretary of State Norma Paulus by Atiyeh this morning.

Honorable Victor Atiyeh
Governor-Elect

Salem, OR 97310

Dear Vic:

I understand your desire to have a team of Department Directors of your own selection, for they will have much to do with the mark of the Atiyeh Administration. Therefore, I offer you my resignation, to be effective on January 8, 1979.

I appreciated your clear statement, when we talked, that your desire to select your own Director was not a reflection on my administration of the Department.

Commerce, while not terribly large, is an amazingly complex Department. I want to make the transition as smooth as possible, so that the work of the Department can continue uninterrupted. May I suggest that, as soon as you have made your choice for Director, you advise me, so that I may contact that person and arrange the earliest possible transition briefings.

I wish you well in your Administration.

Sincerely,

Cornelius C. Bateson

Another head of a state agency has been asked to stay on by Gov.-elect Vic Atiyeh. Atiyeh has asked the Oregon Board of Forestry to retain J. E. Schroeder as Oregon's State Forester and head of the Department of Forestry. The request to keep Schroeder was made by the Gov.-elect after talking with him regarding general policies and goals of the Forestry Department.

"During my campaign for governor I proposed that the State Forestry Department take over management of federal forest lands. I believe that shows the respect and confidence I have for the job being done by the department. Ed deserves credit for a responsible and efficient management job," Atiyeh said.

The Department of Forestry directs the management of state-owned lands, provides fire protection and regulation, and administers the Forest Practices Act. The activities of this department have been used as a model for forestry departments across the country.

Schroeder, 64, was appointed in 1965 after spending 8 years as deputy director. He began work with the Forestry Department in 1941. A forestry graduate of Oregon State University, Schroeder is well-known for his re-forestation leadership after the third Tillamook burn. At that time he was a district forester in Forest Grove. Schroeder is currently a resident of Turner.

Gov.-elect Vic Atiyeh has accepted the resignation of Cornelius Bateson as director of the Department of Commerce. Bateson's resignation will be effective on January 8, 1979.

In Bateson's letter of resignation he pledged to "make the transition as smooth as possible, so that the work of the Department can continue uninterrupted."

In accepting the resignation Atiyeh noted Bateson's long service in the public sector. "Having known and worked with him for a long time I know his interest in the state will not diminish in the future. I know that his leadership will foster a very smooth transition in the Department."

Bateson became head of the Commerce Department in March 1976. Prior to that he was deputy director of the Human Resources Department, administrator of the Health Division, and Insurance Commissioner.

Bateson served three terms in the Oregon House of Representatives beginning in 1961. He was elected to two terms in the Oregon Senate, but resigned his senate seat in 1969 to become Insurance Commissioner.

Carol Whitney, Portland, campaign manager for Gov.-elect Vic Atiyeh's successful gubernatorial effort, was named Affirmative Action Director Thursday. The affirmative action position is within the governor's office.

"This is a very important position to my administration," Atiyeh said. "It is at the executive level of government because of its importance. The affirmative action director will be responsible for assisting agencies within state government in coordinating their affirmative action programs."

In making the first major appointment of a woman to the professional staff, Atiyeh said, "Carol has the business experience and the personal skills necessary for this position."

Whitney, 42, managed both the primary and general election campaigns for Atiyeh. Prior to that job she owned her own interior design business, and managed a Beaverton interior design company.

A graduate of Stanford University, she has been active in the March of Dimes, United Fund, and Hill House, a program for mentally retarded women.

At the midway point between election and inauguration a progress report on the transition may be in order.

We are extremely pleased with the professional manner in which Gov. Straub and his associates have made available their files, their counsel and their good will.

Gov.-elect Atiyeh has met with more than half the Department heads on an individual basis and the transition staff has reviewed and acted on half the budget. Many personnel decisions have been made and promptly announced. These have been both immediate staff members and department heads.

No more careful search could be made than that for Executive Assistant. From his working vacation in Maui Gov.-elect Atiyeh is announcing his selection of a man with experience in all three branches of Oregon Government, a veteran of one of Oregon's most prestigious law firms, a native Oregonian with an ivy league education, three times elected by the people of this state, statewide, and twice in his district, Judge Lee Johnson.

Judge Johnson will resign shortly to assume transitional duties. Advance conversations have been held with Gov. Straub and Chief Judge Schwab.

We believe that Judge Johnson's knowledge of Oregon government, his administrative talent and his keen dedication to public service will enable him to work well with citizens, legislators, those in local and federal government and state employees.

we are restructuring some other functions within the Executive Department. We have selected four people of the highest quality and broadest possible experience in government for the roles they will play. They will work as a team of resource people and in no way will they be considered super department heads or directors. Jim Russell and Robert Oliver have backgrounds in legal affairs but will work in other fields as well. Pat Amedeo has experience in natural resources and her federal government experience across the board will be of great value to us. Betty Maudlin has handled executive matters in a number of capacities and will continue to do so. I believe you have access to their resumes. I am pleased with the team concept we have developed.

This rounds out the immediate office for the time being. We have most of our secretarial appointments made. You have earlier received notice of our appointments of Executive Assistant, Personal Secretary, Affirmative Action Director and Special Assistant for Executive Appointments.

May I say a word of appreciation to Lynn Newbry and the budget office staff who have been pouring over the millions of dollars in the past five weeks. We will present a complete budget and this will be well ahead of any incoming Governor as far as anyone I've talked with can recall.

We are continuing our search for Human Resources, Economic Development, Commerce, Executive Department and, of course, now Director, Health Planning and Development Agency.

Experience

July 1975-Present Administrator
Budget and Management Division
Oregon State Executive Department

This position is responsible for preparation of the Governor's state-wide biennial budget recommendations, presentation of these recommendations to the Legislative Assembly, and supervision over implementation of the legislatively approved budget by the several (146) state agencies. In addition, the Administrator directly supervises the State's central management analysis staff which provides specialized services to both the Governor's Office and state agencies.

These duties require direct management responsibilities for approximately forty-five employees, close coordination with the Governor and his personal staff, an effective working relationship with the legislative leadership, the ability to respond quickly and accurately to the media, and cooperation with several other state agencies concerned with central purchasing, audits and general public administration policies.

Major projects successfully implemented during the past few years include a management trainee program, which is encouraging young, bright individuals to choose State Government as a career; the design of an automated budget information system to minimize the need for manual preparation of budget data; implementation of a computer based personnel control system; and, supervision of a multi-agency application of zero-base budgeting techniques.

January 1970-June 1975 Administrator
Budget Division
Oregon State Executive Department

July 1969-December 1969 Budget Supervisor
Budget Section
Oregon State Executive Department

The titles listed above reflect a period of reorganization in Oregon State Government. The responsibilities were essentially the same as described in the previous description. The central management analysis staff was not attached to the budget unit during this time.

December 1967-June 1969 Assistant Budget Administrator
Oregon State Department of Finance

This position supervised a staff of budget analysts responsible for budget preparation and legislative presentation for all health, education and welfare agencies of state government.

October 1965-November 1967 Legislative Analyst
Legislative Fiscal Committee
State of Oregon

This position was staff for legislative interim committees and the legislative appropriation committee. During this period I was responsible for the staff work which led to the State's implementation of the Medicaid program.

July 1964-September 1965 Special Assistant
Department of Charities
County of Los Angeles

During this time I performed special studies for the Director of the largest department in Los Angeles County Government and supervised the department's safety (workers compensation) program. Responsibilities also included representing the County during legislative consideration of the Medicaid program.

January 1961-June 1964 Senior Administrative Analyst
Chief Administrative Office
County of Los Angeles

This position functioned as a senior budget and management analyst with primary emphasis on the ten public hospitals operated by the County. I also supervised a staff of junior analysts.

October 1958-December 1960 Management Analyst
Department of Finance and Administration
State of Oregon

During this period I served as central staff budget and management analyst. Major areas of responsibility included State Mental Health Institutes, tuberculosis hospitals, and schools for the deaf and blind. I also participated in a major reorganization of the State's budget and management analysis staff services.

July 1958-September 1958 Administrative Assistant
Probation Department
County of Los Angeles

During this period I performed a variety of management studies for the Department.

July 1957-June 1958 Administrative Trainee
Chief Administrative Office
County of Los Angeles

During this period I received a combination of formal instruction in public administration and actual experience in budget and management analysis. I also assisted senior analysts in preparation of the annual County budget.

May 1954-June 1957 Assistant Manager
Mission Announcement Company
San Gabriel, California

During this time I was involved in all production, sales and business aspects of a successful specialized printing business.

1949-1954 U. S. Army

I enlisted as a Private and received regular promotions until Honorably Discharged as a First Lieutenant. Experience included various staff and line assignments including tours of duty in Germany and Korea. As a line officer in an Automatic Weapons Battalion, I had combat experience in Korea.

EDUCATION AND WORK HISTORY

- 1928-1946 Born, January 17, 1928, and raised in Sandstone, Minnesota. Attended Sandstone Elementary and High School, graduating in 1946 with major courses in the physical sciences and in music. President of the Senior Class. During that period, worked on farms, on the railroad, in a department store, and in a milk drying plant.
- 1946-1948 Completed 3 semesters at Hamline University, St. Paul, Minnesota, in pre-engineering. During that period worked full time as a refrigeration inspector at night, and carried a full course load during the day, maintaining a B average. Was awarded a scholarship from Tozer Foundation, Stillwater, Minnesota, and then transferred to the University of Minnesota.
- 1948-1950 While attending the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minnesota, worked part time at a University business office. Completed course work, and graduated with a B.A., major in sociology, minor in psychology.
- 1950-1952 Employed as a social worker with the Cass County Welfare Board, at Walker, Minnesota, part time of which was spent working with the Chippewa Indians.
- 1952-1953 Received appointment as a research assistant at the University of Minnesota, while completing course work for Master of Arts in Public Administration. With the exception of two courses, maintained straight A average in graduate school. Did research on the administrative history of the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse Commission.
- 1953-1956 Employed as Administrative Analyst for the Wisconsin Motor Vehicle Department, at Madison, Wisconsin. Received significant promotions, and duties evolved into serving in a combined capacity as personnel officer, budget officer, and methods officer for the department. The department consisted of more than 800 employees, with an annual budget exceeding $5 million. Participated in a two-week course for systems analysts at IBM in Endicott, New York. Worked closely with Northwestern Traffic Institute in reorganizing the Wisconsin State Patrol, which was increased from 70 to 250 men.
- 1956-1957 November 1, 1956, appointed Manager of the Administrative Services Division of the Oregon Department of Motor Vehicles, responsible for personnel, organization and methods, and machine services. Resigned on April 22, 1957 due to a change in administration, which stopped the installation of a mechanization program for which I had been chiefly recruited.

- 1957-1959 May 1, 1957, appointed Administrative Assistant to the Director of the Traffic Institute, Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois, and Director of the Traffic Division, International Association of Chiefs of Police. Responsibilities organization-wide in the internal management of both organizations, with primary emphasis upon financial management and program development. Rank of Lecturer held in the University, based on limited instruction in the training program of the Traffic Institute in the field of budgeting.
- 1959-1962 April 1, 1959, appointed Deputy Director of Oregon Department of Motor Vehicles under Vern Hill, Director. Responsible for internal operation of Department, with primary responsibility for fiscal, personnel, and data processing. Took major responsibility for budget management and systems study to develop specifications for computerizing data processing operations.
- 1962-1970 January 1, 1962, appointed Assistant Administrator for Business Services of State Public Welfare Commission under Andrew F. Juras, Administrator. Responsible for Fiscal, Data Processing, Systems Development, Research, Work Improvement and Administrative Services Sections. Major accomplishments included conversion of data processing operations from IBM 650 to IBM 1401 and 1410 systems and development of cash payments and vendor payment systems. Assumed responsibility for budget management control of expenditures in all appropriation categories for the entire agency. Elected President of National Association of Public Welfare Finance Officers in 1968. Served on Executive Department Task Force appointed by Governor McCall in 1969 to develop and implement methods to overcome projected $20 million overexpenditure, and implement Management 70's Study Recommendations. Also appointed by Governor McCall to Governor's Task Force on Data Processing during each term.
- 1970-1976 December 1, 1970, appointed Assistant Administrator for Field Operations, created to organize all field offices of the Public Welfare Division into a single entity management unit. During this period, the existence of County Public Welfare Commissions was abolished and separation with the Children's Services Divisions occurred simultaneously with the creation of the Department of Human Resources. Major organizational adaptations were involved in developing a strong management organization and the transition to a state administered program. Present organization includes 2,215 budgeted positions and responsibility for $45.5 million in administrative costs for 1975-77.
- 1976-77 August 15, 1976, appointed Acting Administrator of the Public Welfare Division, serving in this capacity until December 15, 1976. For two months following, placed on special assignment to Mr. Dick Davis, Director of the Department of Human Resources, responsible for planning and implementing organization and management improvements in the administration of the State's child support enforcement program.

present

February 1, 1977, appointed Assistant Administrator of the Adult and Family Services Division (formerly Public Welfare Division) responsible for the Income Maintenance Section. Responsible for administration of all cash assistance programs, including AFDC, SSI, General Assistance, and Refugee Assistance program; and administration of the Food Stamp programs; and administration of the Child Support Program. Responsibility includes program and policy development, and management of program expenditures within budget of $316,820,262 for 1977-79 biennium. Was designated by the Governor as the State's representative on Welfare Reform in relation with the National Governor's Association, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and Congressional Committees.

The Honorable Robert Straub
Governor of Oregon
State Capitol Building
Salem, Oregon 97310

Dear Governor Straub:

As you know, I have been nominated by Governor-elect Atiyeh to serve as his Executive Assistant, which of course requires my resignation from the Court of Appeals.

It was my original intention to resign from the Court of Appeals after Governor-elect Atiyeh made his announcement because it was necessary that I assume duties immediately with his transition staff. However, because there were cases in progress in the court which I had actively participated in, Judge Schwab and I agreed I should postpone the resignation until those cases had been finally decided. The last of these decisions will be released by the court today.

I, therefore, submit my resignation effective at noon today.

Sincerely,

Lee Johnson

Testimony by Governor-elect Victor Atiyeh before the Energy and Power Subcommittee
Hearing on the Pacific Northwest Regional Energy and Power Conservation Bill

My name is Victor Atiyeh and I am Governor-elect of the State of Oregon. I join with Governor Straub in welcoming to Oregon the Honorable Mr. Dingell of the Energy and Power Subcommittee, and his fellow members of Congress.

The means of production and delivery of electric energy in the Pacific Northwest are a unique happenstance of history. Until recently this system was almost wholly dependent on power derived from Columbia River hydroelectric systems. The U. S. Government dams were the major component of that system. As of today, however, almost half of the dams on the Columbia and its tributaries are the result of development by non-Federal entities. We now have an extraordinary system consisting of public utility districts, cooperatives, private utilities, municipal electric systems and mutual associations, together with the Federal System. These agencies have worked out cooperative mechanisms so that the hydrosystem, in the words of Charles Luce, the former BPA administrator, is operated as though under single ownership for maximum efficiency.

Because of increased demands, the power derived from the waters of the Columbia River and its tributaries can no longer supply the needs of the area. This has led to the introduction of high-cost thermal energy into this complex system. As a result we now have a system in which disparate costs and the consequent inequities have become a major public issue. Furthermore, the retail agencies who are dependent upon the federal system are no longer able to determine what power supplies they can expect in the future. All this has led to political tensions, lawsuits and the passage by the State of Oregon of the Domestic and Rural Power Authority (DRPA).

Activation of DRPA could be a unilateral solution to Oregon's quest for an equitable share of the region's power at an equitable price. However, I hope that we do not have to activate DRPA. What is needed is a statesman-like approach wherein parochial interests are foregone in order to attain a regional solution that accommodates all interests. I believe these statesman-like principles are embodied in the provisions of S. 3418. I recognize that this bill contains imperfections, but this is inherent in any legislation which must accommodate diverse interests. I also recognize that the bill may not yet have accommodated all interests and that further changes may be necessary. I pledge my cooperation to help you determine the final shape of the legislation.

Finally, I wish to say that Oregon is not asking for a federal handout. We are asking for our equitable share and that the federal government continue its role as a positive partner with the Northwest states. We believe the principles embodied in S. 3418 form the framework for a comprehensive legislative solution to a problem. We hope that that framework can now be built upon in an expeditious manner to reach the solution.

BIOGRAPHY

LEE JOHNSON

JUDGE, OREGON COURT OF APPEALS

GENERAL

Lee Johnson was born September 8, 1930 and spent most of his early youth in Toledo, Oregon. He moved to Portland with his family in 1941. He and his wife, Dorothy, have five children.

EDUCATION

Johnson graduated from Princeton University (A.B.) in 1953 and earned his law degree from Stanford Law School in 1959. While at Stanford he was a member of the editorial board and revising editor of the Stanford Law Review.

MILITARY

Johnson served three years in the United States Navy as a line office aboard a destroyer, including 19 months in the Far East and Korean Theatre. He was awarded two letters of commendation during his service career.

LAW PRACTICE

Upon graduation from law school, Johnson was selected under the Attorney General's Honor Recruitment Program to serve in Washington, D.C. as an antitrust attorney for the United States Department of Justice. In 1961 he returned to Portland and entered private legal practice. Before his election as Attorney General, he was with the firm of Mautz, Souther, Spaulding, Kinsey and Williamson.

POLITICAL

In 1964 Johnson was first elected to the Oregon House of Representatives and was re-elected in 1966. At the end of his first legislative session, the Associated Press selected him as the "outstanding freshman." During his two terms in the Legislature, he served as chairman of the House Taxation Committee; chairman of the Legislative Interim Committee on Highways and chairman of Fiscal Subcommittee on Education.

In 1968 he defeated a four-term incumbent for state Attorney General and was re-elected in 1972.

Johnson served as a member of the Oregon Criminal Law Revision Commission and the Governor's Commission on Judicial Reform. He served as chairman of the Oregon Law Enforcement Council and the Governor's Commission on Organized Crime, and in 1975 was appointed by the United States Attorney General to serve on the 11-member National Advisory Commission on Criminal Justice Standards and Goals.

Gov.-elect Vic Atiyeh has asked Hoyt Cupp, Superintendent of the Oregon State Penitentiary, to continue in his current position.

Cupp, 51, has been with the Oregon corrections system for over 30 years, the last 11 years as superintendent of the prison.

"I am very pleased that this career employe has agreed to continue the great corrections work he has done over the last three decades," Atiyeh said.

Cupp was appointed to his current job by former Gov. Tom McCall. He is a native of Salem and a graduate of Oregon College of Education. He is the past president of the Western Wardens Association.

Statement by Governor-elect Atiyeh:

"I have today decided to include as part of my 1979-81 budget a General Fund appropriation of $5.6 million for the construction of a light rail system along the Banfield corridor. The total General Fund appropriation commitment for the project will be $18.6 million over three bienniums. Above all, my approval of this project is contingent upon the agreement by several units of local government and the state Department of Transportation for a comprehensive program to improve transportation throughout Oregon. Indeed light rail is only a portion of a single large project for the Banfield corridor in Portland which will cost $161 million. That project includes widening of the Banfield freeway, removal of buses from the freeway and a light rail system to be owned and operated by Tri Met. In addition, the program includes:

1. The City of Portland's withdrawal of the I-505 Interstate project. ($178 million)
2. The construction of the Sunset Highway--217 Interchange. ($12.7 million)
3. Improvement of Highway 212 in Clackamas County. ($6 million).
4. Improvements in 190th and S.E. Powell in Gresham. ($2.1 million)
5. An agreement to transfer certain federal funds for eight years from the metropolitan area to be used in highway

projects throughout the state. ($34.5 million)

As I have stated publicly in the past, it was my view that the proposed Mt. Hood Freeway was a better solution to the metropolitan transportation problem and that I had reservations about light rail as an alternative. However, local governments in that area together with Governor Straub decided to cancel that project in 1975. I am now convinced that under federal law the Mt. Hood project cannot be revived. I have examined the remaining options. I am convinced that under the circumstances this program is the only feasible alternative to solving the metropolitan transportation problems and provide federal funds for needed highway projects throughout the state.

William McClendon has been appointed deputy director of Affirmative Action in Governor-Elect Vic Atiyeh's office. The announcement was made Thursday by Carol Whitney, who will head the Governor's affirmative action effort.

McClendon, 63, is known for his work as director of the Black Studies Center at Reed College from 1969 to 1977. He has taught black studies programs at Willamette University, Pacific University, Oregon State University, and Portland State University. He was educated at West Virginia State College and Ohio State University.

"The deputy's job will be to take the affirmative action program into the community," according to Whitney. "His background will be invaluable in working with minority community leaders, making them aware of job opportunities in state government."

Whitney said that McClendon will help her with the entire affirmative action program, focusing strongly on making minorities, women and handicapped workers aware of state jobs and promoting a better understanding of the job application process.

Gov.-Elect Vic Atiyeh will bring back the traditional use of military aides as part of executive ceremonies beginning with the reception following the inauguration.

The governor is constitutionally the Commander in Chief of the Oregon Military Department and the custom of having military aides at important ceremonies dates back to early territorial times in Oregon history, according to Cecil Edwards, Legislative Historian.

The last governor to use military aides was Governor Hatfield. Governors before Hatfield used military aides to varying degrees. The aides traditionally assist the state's chief executive at formal gatherings, working especially with reception lines of guests.

Not only will Gov.-Elect Atiyeh be bringing back an old tradition, but for the first time one of the aides will be a woman. Major Linda J. Campbell, Oregon Air National Guard along with Major James C. Southern, Army National Guard will serve as Atiyeh's military aides.

A busy schedule is planned for Gov.-Elect and Mrs. Vic Atiyeh on Inaugural Day, January 8, in Salem. Atiyeh will become Governor of Oregon when he takes the oath of office before a joint legislative session beginning at 11 am.

Two receptions are planned, the traditional one coming immediately following the ceremony in the Capitol galleria on the first floor, and the other set for the Salem armory that evening at 8 pm. There is no charge for either event.

The governor's office will hold an open house from noon to 2 pm.

Live television coverage of the morning activities is scheduled for Oregon Educational and Public Broadcasting Service (OEPBS) outlets throughout Oregon.

The evening reception will feature dancing music by Bill DeSouza and his orchestra, according to the general chairman, Mrs. Marge Russell.

Also performing will be the Governor's Pipe Band - Clan Macleay, the Wilson High School Ensemble, and the 234th Oregon Army National Guard Band and Chorus.

Honorary Co-Chairman for the evening inaugural reception are Mrs. Jason Boe and Mrs. Arno Denecke.

STATEMENT BY GOV-ELECT VIC ATIYEH

Somewhat we thought it could never happen here. The tragedy of a major aircraft disaster in Portland shocks us all. Our sympathy goes out to the families and friends of the victims.

At the same time, we must praise those whose efforts saved hundreds of lives. The calm professional actions taken by the flight crew prior to the crash--the passengers who fought panic to help injured from the broken aircraft--and the outstanding response of the metropolitan area disaster team--all these people deserve our highest commendation.

The prayers of the passengers and crew of Flight 173 are chronicled in this mornings news reports. Today we add our prayers of thanksgiving to those of the survivors and our sincere condolences to the families who lost loved ones.

Statement by Governor-elect Vic Atiyeh

The transition process is nearly over. Yesterday I announced a major income and property tax relief plan -- tomorrow I will present a budget for the next two years. I am proud of the work that has been done by the transition staff.

Today I have the pleasure of announcing three top agency appointments. These individuals have extensive background and experience qualifying them for the jobs they will hold.

Jim Bedingfield will serve as the director of the Executive Department. He has practiced law in Coos Bay since 1952, where he is senior partner in the firm Bedingfield, Joelson, Gould & Barron. He served as state representative from the Bay area during the 1965 and 1967 regular and special sessions. His experience also includes work on the joint Ways & Means Committee and the State Emergency Board.

Serving as Mr. Bedingfield's deputy will be Robert Smith who is currently the administrator of the Budget and Management Division for the Executive Department. He brings to this job extensive experience in finance and budget matters. He has been with the Executive Department for nearly ten years and was a key individual in developing my budget.

The state's biggest department, the Department of Human Resources, will be led by Leo Hegstrom. This individual has 20 years of state government experience in Oregon. He is the fourth person to head up this department but the first director to be named from within the department. He is currently the deputy director of Human Resources. He has been working in the Oregon human services area for 16 years, and has been intimately involved in this type of work from the beginning of his career.

Statement by Governor-Elect Atiyeh

One of the most important transition activities in the last few months has been the development of a budget for the next two years. My budget reflects two dramatic elements:

First of all the growth in the state's level of expenditures will be less than the rate of inflation, with a rise of 8.3% each year rather than the 25% and 27% increases in recent years.

Secondly our principle objective in drafting this budget was tax relief. Over 23% of general fund resources has been allocated for property and income tax relief.

My budget is not a shopping list for new government programs, but a commitment to responsible fiscal management. It is a budget based on often difficult and often heart rending decisions, because the expectations of some will always exceed what we can give.

I am asking that government not spend more, but do more with what it has.

This will most likely be the last news conference of the transition period. At this time I would like to review just what has been accomplished during the last two months.

I have to tell you all that I am proud of what has been done in so short a time.

Just a few days ago I kept my promise to Oregonians and produced a property and income tax relief package. Today hundreds of hours of work culminates with the delivery of the budget. Both of these significant endeavours were completed prior to the beginning of the 60th legislative session.

One of the most critical jobs for an incoming governor is selection of talented people to work in the administration. The quality of these people's work will be the measure of our future success. Twentyeight important appointments and reappointments were made in eight short weeks. Each of these individuals has superior background and experience for their assigned jobs.

I invite all Oregonians to study the achievements of the transition period. The programs and policies developed and the way in which they were created will be the hallmark of the Atiyeh administration. An analysis of the last two months should provide you a window into the future.

Finally, this would not have happened without the commitment and dedication of many people. Those on my immediate staff, state employees in all departments, and especially Lynn Newbry and Travis Cross the two top transition staffers.

Department and Agency Heads in the Executive Branch

At a meeting of department heads in mid-December, I suggested that the Farewell and Inaugural Addresses by Governors Straub and Atiyeh would be worth the while of state employees. Having experienced the crowded conditions of the House of Representatives, discussion took place about another location for the oath of office ceremony, but we always came back to the House.

It is suggested that employees be encouraged to bring transistor or plug-in radios in order to listen to Governor Straub and Governor Atiyeh with their respective messages. In the case of Governor Atiyeh, the tax and budget messages will have previously been delivered in written form to the members of the Legislature.

The Inaugural Ceremony is scheduled to begin at 11:00 a.m. on Monday, January 8. The program will be made available on radio station KOAC AM, 550 K.C. on the dial.

Your personnel will have no better opportunity to reflect on the achievements in which they have participated over the past four years and to learn from the new Governor his themes and aspirations for them.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

January 4, 1979

"Oregonians have waited a dozen years for an anti-inflationary budget, and now under the leadership of Vic Atiyeh we have one," said House Minority Leader Rep. Gary Wilhelms, R-Klamath Falls.

"This is a working-class budget that shows frugality and is in keeping with the public mandate for tax relief.

"Vital state programs are being adequately funded to maintain the high standards we have set. Yet, the administrative costs of government are being reduced, a move that all taxpayers will cheer.

"The funding for education and human resources is being increased substantially, but the programs and services these segments of state government provide are essential. Gov.-elect Atieyh is showing a deep concern for the needs of Oregon's needy and for our youth.

"The House Republican Caucus believes that government, just as private citizens and businesses, should be an equal partner in the painful process of belt-tightening. And, finally Oregon has a governor who believes likewise.

"Atiyeh's budget sends 25 percent of every tax dollar back to the people of Oregon in direct and meaningful tax relief. And, he has been able to do this by trimming and cutting budgets. There may be cries of anguish over some of the cuts, but we cannot continue to dig ever deeper into the wallets and purses of the working men and women of Oregon.

"Atiyeh's budget is a 70 percent decrease in the rate of state spending. His projections call for a state spending increase of only 8.3 percent. (Gov. Straub's last budget was a 27.7 percent increase in state spending.)

"He is able to decrease spending while maintaining the highest level of school support in the state's history. Atiyeh's decision to keep Basic School Support at 40 percent is one that should meet with the general approval of the Legislature."

Wilhelms said he is pleased with Atiyeh's decision to "improve the state's long-range timber supply through intensive forest management practices."

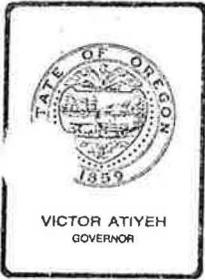

"This move is in concert with the rest of the Pacific Northwest. With 32% of the regional employment associated with the timber industry, Atiyeh's concern with improving our timber resource is to be lauded.

"In all, Atiyeh's budget is a sound, fiscal document that answers the public mandate for tax relief, reduced government spending, maintaining necessary services and less administration.

"Now it is up to the Legislature to scrutinize every portion of it to insure that it is as solid on the inside as it appears from the initial summaries."

SUBJECT: Personnel Division Milestones for 1980

- Reduced workforce from ninety to eighty and reorganized to maintain productivity.
- Established agency user groups which will advise Personnel Division on needed personnel policy changes; priorities for updating classification specifications; data processing priorities for better management information relating to employee data; and, ad hoc committees as needed. Full implementation will occur in early 1981.
- Developed a user represented panel for selecting IPA grants for local government entities as well as state agencies. Region 10 suggests quality of projects has increased noticeably over prior years.
- Assisted with logistics of largest layoff in recent state history of state workers with no management decision reversals by Employee Relations Board to date.
- Developed new personnel policies for unrepresented employees to be implemented on July 1, 1981. Cumbersome rules will be replaced for the most part. This was accomplished utilizing significant line agency input.
- Improved, with no additional staff, our ability to provide management training programs. We also have had the opportunity to consult with nine agencies and design specific training interventions to assist with organizational development and improvement goals.
- Compiled and distributed a comprehensive Training Resources Directory in response to resource sharing concepts.
- Assisted in development of employee cash awards program.

Oregon Legislature

Elected to the Oregon House of Representatives for the regular and special sessions of 1965 and 1967.

Served on the Ways & Means Committee and the Emergency Board.

These duties require direct management responsibilities for approximately forty-five employees, close coordination with the Governor and his personal staff, an effective working relationship with the legislative leadership, the ability to respond quickly and accurately to the media, and cooperation with several other state agencies concerned with central purchasing, audits and general public administration policies.

Major projects successfully implemented during the past few years include a management trainee program, which is encouraging young, bright individuals to choose State Government as a career; the design of an automated budget information system to minimize the need for manual preparation of budget data; implementation of a computer based personnel control system; and, supervision of a multi-agency application of zero-base budgeting techniques.

January 1970-June 1975 Administrator
Budget Division
Oregon State Executive Department

July 1969-December 1969 Budget Supervisor
Budget Section
Oregon State Executive Department

The titles listed above reflect a period of reorganization in Oregon State Government. The responsibilities were essentially the same as described in the previous description. The central management analysis staff was not attached to the budget unit during this time.

December 1967-June 1969 Assistant Budget Administrator
Oregon State Department of Finance

This position supervised a staff of budget analysts responsible for budget preparation and legislative presentation for all health, education and welfare agencies of state government.

October 1965-November 1967 Legislative Analyst
Legislative Fiscal Committee
State of Oregon

This position was staff for legislative interim committees and the legislative appropriation committee. During this period I was responsible for the staff work which led to the State's implementation of the Medicaid program.

July 1964-September 1965 Special Assistant
Department of Charities
County of Los Angeles

During this time I performed special studies for the Director of the largest department in Los Angeles County Government and supervised the department's safety (workers compensation) program. Responsibilities also included representing the County during legislative consideration of the Medicaid program.

January 1961-June 1964

Senior Administrative Analyst
Chief Administrative Office
County of Los Angeles

This position functioned as a senior budget and management analyst with primary emphasis on the ten public hospitals operated by the County. I also supervised a staff of junior analysts.

October 1958-December 1960

Management Analyst
Department of Finance and Administration
State of Oregon

During this period I served as central staff budget and management analyst. Major areas of responsibility included State Mental Health Institutes, tuberculosis hospitals, and schools for the deaf and blind. I also participated in a major reorganization of the State's budget and management analysis staff services.

July 1958-September 1958

Administrative Assistant
Probation Department
County of Los Angeles

During this period I performed a variety of management studies for the Department.

July 1957-June 1958

Administrative Trainee
Chief Administrative Office
County of Los Angeles

During this period I received a combination of formal instruction in public administration and actual experience in budget and management analysis. I also assisted senior analysts in preparation of the annual County budget.

May 1954-June 1957

Assistant Manager
Mission Announcement Company
San Gabriel, California

During this time I was involved in all production, sales and business aspects of a successful specialized printing business.

1949-1954

U. S. Army

I enlisted as a Private and received regular promotions until Honorably Discharged as a First Lieutenant. Experience included various staff and line assignments including tours of duty in Germany and Korea. As a line officer in an Automatic Weapons Battalion, I had combat experience in Korea.
